

TUNED GLASS

A Reading with Michael Levell & Rebecca Snow

Wednesday, June 24th, 7:00 pm

Printed Page Bookshop

1416 S Broadway, Denver, CO 80210

Refreshments and book signing included.

Rebecca Snow will read from her debut novel, Glassmusic, a literary, coming-of-age book set in Norway in the early twentieth century. Michael Levell will read his intriguing and fine-crafted poems from selected work. Both authors are local to Denver, and they write with perfect pitch.

Like Ingmar Bergman's films, Snow's creation is a world unto itself."

—Annie David

MICHAEL LEVELL was born and raised in Southern Indiana where he first developed a love for poetry. He received his MFA in writing and poetics from Jack Kerouac's School of Disembodied Poetics at Naropa University, and he teaches writing and literature at the Community College of Aurora. His poems can be found many places online including foundpoetry.com, an upcoming issue of shampoo poetry, madeupmovement.com, and lemonpuppy.com among others.

REBECCA SNOW'S novel Glassmusic was released from Conundrum Press in November 2014. Her award-winning nonfiction and poetry are featured in the Denver Poetry Map, Pooled Ink, and Progenitor, and she was awarded the Robert and Daryl Davis Fellowship in Poetry for the 2015 Seaside Writers Conference. Originally from Seattle, Rebecca earned her MFA from the University of Montana and teaches English at the Community College of Aurora.